

Use of Cookies

To ensure the most pleasant and efficient use of the Time is Money application, we use cookies. Cookies are small text files that are stored on your device and help us better understand how you use our application.

What types of cookies do we use?

1. Strictly necessary cookies

These cookies are essential for the proper functioning of the application. They enable, for example, login to your user account, application security, or saving your settings during a session. Without these cookies, the application would not function correctly.

2. Preference cookies

These allow us to remember your preferences (e.g., language, interface selection, display settings). Thanks to them, we can offer you a more convenient and personalized user experience.

3. Analytical cookies

They collect anonymous information about how you use the application – for example, which features are used most often, where users come from, or how much time is spent in various parts of the application. They help us improve the functionality and user-friendliness of the application.

4. Marketing cookies

We use these only with your consent. These cookies are used to display relevant advertisements or to connect with social networks. Currently, however, Time is Money does not typically use these types of cookies.

How can you control the use of cookies?

You can adjust or completely disable the use of cookies in your internet browser at any time. Please note that disabling certain types of cookies may affect the functionality of the application.
